The problem with the game is that the items are ridiculously expensive and you have to buy new lines and weights for each zone, which is nonsense and is only there to get you to spend real money to buy gold. Now I do not mind microtransactions in games that I like and I have spent probably $50+ on this game. As a 42-year-old man, I have some disposable income that younger people most likely don't have. So you either paint, paint, paint or you will take a year or so to earn the gold needed. You can play this game without ever spending a single actual dollar on it, and you can have fun doing it. But you won't get to do much without countless hours of grinding. Even if you don't want to buy gold for the game I still recommend you spend $4.99 for the best katana that allows you to cut through dynamite without it blowing up in your face and ending your current catch. It's worth the five dollars. This game is awesome! I got it a few years back on my old tablet and I got rich from what I thought was a mistake, but I ended up deleting it because they didn't let me access the food island. Now I have it again, that's good. It's fun to collect fish and treasures. And what the ninja are saying is just So far, nothing bad happened to me, except for a mistake there. I was under the treasure chest, I couldn't collect the fish on the way down. I guess I'm not complaining, since the game allowed me to catch the fish on the way up. This is a great game to pass time, I recommend it. Edit: I came back to say, this game has such problems. The fish failure can actually be annoying sometimes, since I can't catch rare fish or treasure chests on the way down easily, and it can be annoying. Overall good game, but it can be repetitive or annoying, especially with glitches. This game pretty much fun and got me playing all the time for a while. But when you get to about 800,900 meters, it's ridiculous to get money. To watch videos gives you almost nothing. With the ninja village, it's pointless to try to build something because the revenue is worthless. There must be a much better way to have a different income than playing 30 times for an upgrade. I agree with previous reviews where videos should be 5¢ or at least 1¢. 100 coins is absolutely nothing. Plus, when building shops and homes, you can not build more than 2 (40 coins / hour) then you have to go to another island that is extremely expensive. This game gets boring because you have to play a ridiculous amount to get to the next level.
